PREPARATION AND ASSESSMENT OF FAST DISINTERGRATING TABLET OF SODIUM DICLOFENAC

Abstract - Fast Mouth Dissolving Tablets (FMDT) are a type of oral solid dosage form designed for patients who find it difficult to swallow pills, particularly geriatric and pediatric patients. These tablets disintegrate rapidly when placed on the tongue, releasing the drug into the saliva, which dissolves or disperses, allowing the patient to swallow the medication without the need for water. Additionally, some drugs that are soluble in saliva can be absorbed from the mouth, pharynx, and esophagus, potentially improving bioavailability by avoiding first-pass metabolism. Considering these benefits, the formulation of FMDT of Diclofenac Sodium was considered appropriate. A literature review found that FMDT of Terbutaline Sulphate have not been developed. Hence, an attempt was made to formulate and evaluate FMDT of Diclofenac Sodium using various techniques to improve patient compliance and develop a new, convenient dosage form for geriatric and pediatric patients.

1. INTRODUCTION

Most commonly employed oral dosage forms are tablets and capsules. Compressed tablets are the most widely used dosage forms for a number of reasons. They are convenient, easy to use, less expensive, tamper-proof, easy to pack and ship and more stable than other oral dosage forms. Also tablets lend themselves to certain special release profile products such as enteric or delayed release products. A Fast Mouth Dissolving Tablet (FMDT) can be defined as an oral solid dosage form which when placed on tongue, disintegrates rapidly, releasing the drug, which dissolves or disperses in the saliva and then swallowed. Some drugs are absorbed from the mouth, pharynx, and oesophagus as the saliva passes down in to the stomach. The main problem with the common oral dosage forms is that they have to be swallowed along with water. Many patients find it difficult to swallow tablets, 'Fast Dissolve', 'Quick Dissolve', 'Rapid Melt', 'Quick Disintegrating', 'Mouth Dissolving', 'Orally Disintegrating', 'Oro Dispersible', 'Melt - in-Mouth' etc. are terms that represent the same drug delivery systems. Recently Orally Disintegrating

Abstract - A new, simple, precise, accurate and reproducible RP-HPLC method for Simultaneous estimation of bulk and pharmaceutical formulations. Separation of Acebrophyline and Levocetizine Hcl AND Montelkast successfully achieve done HIBAR C18 250X 4.6mm, 5 μ m, equivalent in an isocratic mode utilizing NaH₂PO₄: Methanol: ACN (55:25:20) at a flow rate of 1.0mL/min and elute was monitored at 282nm, with a retention time of 1.778 and 2.261 and 2.817 minutes for Acebrophyline and Levocetizine Hcl and Montelkast respectively. The method was validated and there sponse was found to be linear in the drug concentration range of 50 μ g/ml to150 μ g/ml for Acebrophyline and 50 μ g/ml to150 μ g/ml for Levocetizine Hcl and a50 μ g/ml to150 μ g/ml for Montelkast . The values of the correlation coefficient were found to0.999 for Nitazoxanide and 1 for Ofloxacin and 0.999 for Montelkast respectively. The LOD and LOQ for Acebrophyline were found to be 0.251 and 0.863 respectively. The LOD and LOQ for Levocetizine Hcl were found to be 0.0137 and 0.0456 respectively. . The LOD and LOQ for Montelkast were found to be 0.023 and 0.077 respectively. This method was found to be good percentage recovery for Acebrophyline and Levocetizine Hcl and Montelkast were found to be 100 and 100 and 100 respectively indicates that the proposed method is highly accurate. The specificity of the method shows good correlation between retention times of standard with the sample so, the method specifically determines the analyte in the sample without interference from excipients of tablet dosage forms. The method was extensively validated according to ICH guidelines for Linearity, Accuracy, Precession, Specificity and Robustness.

Keywords: Acebrophyline, Levocetizine Hcl, Montelkast High performance liquid chromatography.

ABSTRACT

The aim of the present work was to develop and validate a simple and efficient method for the analysis of Aprepitant in pharmaceutical dosage forms by reverse phase high-pressure liquid chromatography. A stainless steel column 75 mm long, 4.6 mm internal diameter filled with octasilyl silica chemically bonded with synthetic hybrid silica gel particles of 3.5 µm diameter was used for elution. The retention time of Aprepitant was 4.05 min. The method showed a good linearity in the concentration range of 0.02478 – 0.07434 mg/mL with a correlation coefficient of 0.9999. The validation characteristics included specificity, linearity, limit of detection, limit of quantification, precision, robustness and stability. Validation acceptance criteria were met in all cases. The method could be successfully used for the analysis of Aprepitant in pharmaceutical dosage forms.

Skill development programme on Pharmacovigilance of Medical Products

Objective

- The objective of this skill development programme is to enhance Pharmacovigilance (PV) Knowledge and skills of the healthcare professionals, which in turn promote patient safety.

Target Group

- Young Pharmacy / Medical / Paramedical professionals seeking career in Pharmacovigilance.
- Existing professionals in Pharmacovigilance.

Career Prospects

- Employment opportunities in Pharmacovigilance in Government & Private sector.
- Career opportunities in regulatory system / CROs and public health programmes.
- Abilities to deliver Good Pharmacovigilance Practice at par with international requirements.
- Providing a platform for being an entrepreneur in Pharmacovigilance.

Expected Outcomes

- Acquiring basic knowledge in Pharmacovigilance.
- Creating a workforce at National / International level to meet challenges in PV.
- Enable and mobilize a large number of health care professionals to take up training and acquire requisite skills for employment.
- Capacity building and strengthening of QPPV (Qualified Person for Pharmacovigilance) as per the requirement of the schedule Y of Drugs and Cosmetics Act.

Course Content

- Pharmacovigilance: Basics, Objectives & Methods.
- ADRs: Understanding, Prevention & Reporting.
- Understanding of Individual Case Safety Reports.
- Materiovigilance Programme of India.
- Causality Assessment & Quality review.
- Signal Detection & Assessment.
- PV based Regulatory Action-Application of IT tools.
- Adverse Events Following Immunization (AEFI).
- Periodic Safety Reports: PSURs/PBRERs.
